General disclaimer

From ForexLicenseWiki, the free encyclopedia of forex licenses · Last updated 28 November 2026

ForexLicenseWiki provides general information only. It is not legal, tax, financial or investment advice, and it is not a recommendation to use or avoid any broker or jurisdiction. Requirements, fees and capital change, and articles may not reflect the latest changes. Always confirm with the regulator concerned or a qualified professional before applying for a license or opening an account.

CFDs and leveraged forex are complex, high-risk products. Most retail investor accounts lose money when trading them. A license does not protect anyone against trading losses.

ForexLicenseWiki is not a regulator and is not affiliated with any regulator. The only authoritative record of who holds a license is the regulator's own public register.
